

“CLIENTS DEAL WITH THE SAME TEAM FROM DESIGN RIGHT THROUGH TO HANDOVER.”

DESIGN AND CONSTRUCT

GLASSHOUSE PROJECTS

Building or renovating can be a daunting process, but when it is broken down into stages and overseen by an experienced team who are working together the results are seamless and the experience, even enjoyable. That is the service that is offered by boutique architecture firm Glasshouse Projects.

High-end residential builds, renovations, commercial and retail are the focuses of this creative hub, which was founded by architect Don Iannicelli. Their point of difference is an end-to-end service that includes design, construction and interior design, meaning clients effectively deal with the same team from design right through to key handover.

“I am fortunate that I have been exposed to many ways of delivering architecture. I understood very early on that if the architect could equip themselves with a broader range of skills and knowledge, predominately in construction and project management, they would be in the best position to create and coordinate the entire process. Plus it’s a wonderful bonus to be involved in the complete journey with a client, seeing them react to the design coming to life.”

Integrity and client experience are the end-game for the innovative team of professionals at Glasshouse, who are changing it up by offering an all-encompassing design and construct experience.
